And for ſtrengthening the Stomach, immediately creating a good Appetite, cauſing a regular and eaſy Digeſtion of Food, and curing all windy Effects and Diſorders of the firſt Paſſages (whence proceed Head-achs, Vapours and other Indiſpoſitions) no Bitters nor any other Medicine upon Earth can compare with them, inſomuch that beſides infallibly curing the Scurvy in all its Shapes and Appearances, they alſo aſſuredly and immediately cure the Green-ſickneſs in Virgins, Worms of all Kinds in Young or old, and almoſt all other Chronick Diſeaſes, (which are chiefly occaſioned by Indigeſtion and flatulent Crudities in the Stomach and Bowels) and certainly prevent Fevers, Agues, and other acute Illneſſes.

IT is a great Misfortune to the People in general, that even thoſe Men who pretend moſt to Prudence and Publick Spirit, are as much, if not more, guided by their Paſſions, than thoſe who make none of theſe Pretences. I ſay this is a great Misfortune to the People, and in truth it is no ſmall one to theſe extraordinary Perſonages themſelves. It certainly gall a Man who ſets up for Wiſdom, tereſtedneſs, and Love of his Country, to have it plain even to himſelf that he poſſeſſes none of Virtues, but that the Motions he ſuppoſes to be d by them are the pure Effects of Spleen; juſt as ty Maladies his Lady complains of are only ſo Symptoms of the Vapours. This, I ſay, muſt ſuch a Man ſenſible Uneaſineſs, independent of oncern which he muſt feel from the ſame Things made manifeſt to the Publick: To the Publick, nd Idol of his Thoughts and Wiſhes, for whom Speeches are made, and whom he wilfully miſor the Common Weal!

this frequently has fallen out, and in all Probaever will fall out, to ſuch as aſpire to that tickliſh r of being the People's Darlings, by profeſſedly ng Power. When Men ſet out on a wrong le it is ſo natural for them to make wrong Steps, e can ſcarce conceive how they ſhould avoid tho' at the ſame time we muſt readily grant, eir own Conſciouſneſs of being wrong ſhould fill with continual Caution. The Miſchief lies here. bits are very prevalent; and tho' Men at firſt themſelves to be wrong, yet when for a long ey have perſwaded others, they come at laſt to hemſelves in the right; and this it is which gives at extraordinary Confidence which ſome are apt ke for the Courage that Truth inſpires.

ke no queſtion that this was the Caſe of Catiline, ndaunted Spirit is ſo much celebrated even by orian who condemns his Actions. Nothing can ner, even from what Saluſt ſays of him, than valued himſelf and taught all his Faction to emſelves on Patriotiſm; and tho' neither he y had any other Proof to bring of their Couning in a miſerable Condition, than their being Place, yet they thought they had a great many, find them very pathetically dreſs'd out in his Neither am I at all ſurprized at what Cicero one of his Orations, that even after he was dead re People mad enough to take him for a Mard to dreſs his Tomb with Flowers. I ſay, I at all ſurprized at this, ſince there ſcarce ever old Pretender either to Religious or Political who did not ſo far carry his Point as to make es; ay, and to keep them too, in ſpite of the Detection of his Hypocriſy. The Habit of is a very ſtrong Habit where-ever it gets ; and therefore the Friends of Truth and Virt to beſtir themſelves that it may not prevail.

his Humour of fanſying themſelves right, in he ſtrongeſt Evidence, we may juſtly refer not t Party Madneſs of never giving up any Point, r ſo fairly beaten from it, but alſo a domeſtick Folly of the ſame Sort, that of thinking one's ſe a juſt one, notwithſtanding the Deciſion of all ts in the Kingdom in favour of the other Side. he peculiar Foible of a certain Tribe of old Wo- having commenced Suits on certain Crotchets own, and having been led up in their wrong by a Crew of knaviſh Sollicitors, come at laſt Perſuaſion that they are cruelly injured, not their Adverſaries who in the mean time only eir own, but by the Maſters to whom they are lly referred, and by him who, as his Duty dicrees againſt them.

alous are theſe antiquated Ladies in purſuit of judices, that they will follow and ſtun People moſt fooliſh and improbable Stories of their dſhips, and other Folks Injuſtice. At ſuch a y were caſt through the Judge's Want of Senſe; r, through his too great Quickneſs. One Bill iſſed through the Fault of the Council who a ſecond had the like Fate from a Miſtake in pleaded. To day their own Attorney is in o morrow the Attorney of the other Side is too them. Sometimes they loſe a Motion by being obliged to give Notice of it, at others they are diſappointed by forgetting Affidavits tho' they kept them by them ready drawn. In ſhort, let them be caſt over and over, let them loſe their Cauſes above and below, in Courts of Common Law and of Equity, nay, even before the —— of ——, it is all the ſame thing, every Creature who will but ſtand and hear their Tale, muſt have this probable Story cramm'd down their Throats, that the good old Ladies were everywhere in the right, only Juries, Judges, ——, all were biaſſed, partial, corrupt, and what not.

There is not certainly a greater Virtue in human Nature, than being able to do Juſtice to Truth, at the Expence of one's own Opinion; or of owning that another is in the right, when this cannot be done without confeſſing ourſelves in the wrong. Many a Man has Obſtinacy enough to ſpeak, to write, nay even to fight for a Lie; but few, very few, have that ſuperlative Degree of Courage which aims at Praiſe by taking Shame, and yet certainly there is nothing more noble, next to being always in the right, than readily owning we have been in the wrong. Beſides it has not only Merit but Wiſdom in it, the World will ſee it whether we own it or not, and our pretending to ſcreen ourſelves by ſilly Shifts and idle Pretences will make them ſee It in a ſtronger and Us in a more ridiculous Light, than if we had own'd it, and ſaid we were ſorry.

But alas! to preach this to ſome People is mere beating of the Wind, they have as little Senſe of Shame as they have Concern for Juſtice; their Paſſion, their Pride, their Reſentment, their Diſappointment, their Diſtraction is ſo great, that Truth, Virtue, Reaſon, are alike abſent from their Minds, all they ſtudy is to continue in the old Track, to invent Stories to delude the thin Train of their Dependants, and to give theſe Weight they care not what Oaths, what Aſſeverations they uſe.

LONDON, February 28.

Late laſt Night arriv'd a Dutch Mail, with Advice of the 11th ult. N. S. from Conſtantinople, that there's a great Inſurrection there by the Populace, who demand that the Sultan or Grand Vizir be depoſed, and that an entire Revolution is apprehended in that Empire.

And from Petersbourg of the 13th inſt. that the Regent has ordered 40,000 Recruits to be raiſed, and the Magazines on the Frontiers of Finland to be ſtored; that Kouli Kan is aſſembling a conſiderable Army, and filling the Magazines on the Frontiers of his Dominions towards Turky; and that the States of Ruſſia have ſign'd Sentence of Death upon the Duke of Courland, but that the Regent will change it to his Baniſhment for Life to Siberia.

From Stockholm of the 18th they write, that the Swedes are haſtening the Equipment of 18 Men of War at Carelſcroon to be ready to put to Sea next Month, and that they are ſending a vaſt Quantity of Ammunition to Finland.

From Berlin of the 28th, that the King of Pruſſia has fix'd his Head Quarters at Schweidnitz in Sileſia.

Some Advices from Dreſden ſay the Court of Vienna has reſolv'd to come to an Accommodation with the King of Pruſſia, with the Mediation of the Ruſſian, Britiſh and Saxon Courts.

Notwithſtanding the above from Petersburg, there's Advice from Aleppo of the 28th of December, that a Perſian Nobleman is gone thro' that City for Conſtantinople, as Ambaſſador from Kouli Kan, with 2000 Perſons in his Retinue, 9 Elephants, and a great Number of Camels, ſome of 'em laden with rich Preſents for the Grand Signior.

By the laſt French Mail we were favour'd with the following Advices.

'The Spaniſh Ambaſſador at Vienna is ſaid to have 'wrote to his Brother Ambaſſador at another Court, 'That he was ſorry to tell him their Court had met 'with a great Diſappointment, by the Duke of Cour'land's being ſo ſuddenly remov'd from the Regency; 'and that ſome of his Papers were found, which had 'diſcover'd the Private Correſpondence he carried on 'with France, with which Court the following Scheme 'was ſaid to have been concerted.'

'That he had obliged himſelf to cauſe the Young 'Czar, his Father and Mother, to be put to Death, 'he then to be crowned Emperor of Ruſſia, and his 'Son to be married to the Princeſs Elizabeth: All 'the Eſtates taken from Sweden in the laſt War were 'to be reſtored to her; the King of Poland to be 'elected Emperor, and to have Bohemia added to his 'Eſtates; the Kingdom of Poland to be reſtored to 'King Staniſlaus; the Higher Auſtria and Tirol to be 'given to the Elector of Bavaria; to Spain, the Mila'neſe and Tuſcany; to France, all Flanders and the 'Duchy of Luxemburgh; Sileſia to Pruſſia; and the 'Archduchеſs to remain with the Lower States of 'Auſtria and Hungary.'

'From Spain it was adviſed, that Orders had been 'given for the Troops deſign'd for Italy to be ready 'to march by the firſt of March; that Ten Gallies 'and Half-Gallies were going from Carthagena to 'Majorca, to tranſport the Troops there to Barcelona, 'where the Infantry were to imbark for Porto Spetia, 'and the Horſe march by Land to Toulon, and there 'imbark for the ſame Place: The Pretext that France 'will not grant them Paſſage thro' their Country is 'only an Amuſement of the Cardinal's, without whoſe 'Conſent Spain undertakes nothing; but it is no way 'likely the King of Sardinia will conſent to their 'coming into Italy, or give them a Paſſage for their 'Troops. He only waits to have Offers from the Arch'ducheſs to declare in her Favour: By Spain he can 'get nothing.'

The George, Sharp, for London, ſailed in Company with Capt. Newſon the 3d of January from Barbados, but were ſeparated ſhortly after they left Barbados.
